Lauren S. Wulfe is a litigation associate at Larson O'Brien LLP. Her practice encompasses a broad range of litigation with a focus on complex consumer disputes, mass torts, and state and federal class actions. Ms. Wulfe has extensive experience in defending and resolving multi-district litigations and consolidated proceedings, including drafting and negotiating settlement agreements and conducting exposure analyses and claims valuations. In addition, Ms. Wulfe has defended corporations and individuals in real estate and trade secret disputes.

Prior to joining Larson O'Brien, Ms. Wulfe was an associate at a boutique law firm specializing in mediation and settlement of complex litigation and a litigation associate at Arnold & Porter LLP. Ms. Wulfe graduated from the Georgetown University Law Center in 2012, where she received the Dean's Certificate for Outstanding Service to the Law Center. During law school, Ms. Wulfe also worked full-time for the Legal Aid Society for the District of Columbia. She earned her undergraduate degree from New York University.

Ms. Wulfe is active in public service leadership and serves as a board member of The Children's Partnership, a national nonprofit children's advocacy organization.
